FIBER Festival 2012 connects digital art with contemporary club-culture and enacts the in-between.

Audiovisual network festival FIBER is preparing to once again merge different worlds into one unified interdisciplinary experience of (visual) art and music. The second edition of FIBER Festival will take place March 24th 2012 at 'De Verdieping', the basement of the renowned venue TrouwAmsterdam. Tickets are available in online presale at fiberfestival.nl and can be bought at the door during the event.

The festival invites young talent, established artists and curious visitors to meet, showcase and share their views, expertise, enthusiasm and experience. The programme - one day and one night - reflects a sincere passion for deep electronic sounds, innovative visuals and the power of network environments, connections established by fiberglass. Besides the immersive relation between image and sound, the addictive power of new media technology enhances the festival experience as a whole.

Same as last year, the festival is divided into three parts; EXPO, DAY and NIGHT. EXPO is the continuous exhibition with installations and performance elements. The DAY programme features installations, lectures/presentations, and performances. NIGHT is the club night with integrated visual performances and electronic music brought by DJ's and live acts.

The music line-up for the NIGHT programme is a mix of established artists and fresh talents: Lebanese Morphosis (Morphine Records), Rotterdam based Frustrated Funk figure Klen and the upcoming collective ESHU from Nijmegen, next to Dubberdink (FIBER) and Mattikk (Nachtwerk, Amsterdam).

New to the festival is the Databooth; an ongoing experiment which tries to capture different types of signals, visualises them, and makes them available in packages for everyone to use. It enables the audience - present and remote - to participate and translate themselves into an artistically present entity. Next to the Databooth FIBER's new online platform fiber-space.nl extends FIBER into the digital domain.

The second edition of FIBER Festival carries the theme "Sharing Signals; enacting the in-between", an open approach of the sharing of knowledge and creating collaboratively. With this approach, different disciplines collide, borders between audience and artist fade, ideas develop and new perspectives and experiences emerge. On this basis FIBER hopes to create new views, establish new connections and develop new grounds for future projects.”

Tickets, more information and updates on the festival and it's lineup are available at our festival website www.fiberfestival.nl.

Ticket prices (excl. handling fees) are:

€ 7 for DAY (EXPO + DAY / 14:00 - 20:00)

€ 15 for NIGHT (EXPO + clubnight / 21:00 - 05:00)

€ 20 for FULL (EXPO + DAY + NIGHT / 14:00 - 05:00)

NIGHT and FULL tickets also give entrance to the upstairs programme at TrouwAmsterdam, hosted by 'Imprint'
